

“The Decision to go to War with Iraq” Case Study

Names:

Explain the different perspectives of the government careerist and the political appointees in this case.

Who (the careerist or appointees) got what they wanted and why?

What does this case illustrate about the differences in type and amount of power that careerists and appointees have?